Grey Oak

FP11

The background of the image is a close-up, vertical view of an oak wood grain. The grain is characterized by its wavy, undulating patterns and a light tan to beige color palette. The texture is highly detailed, showing the natural growth rings and the characteristic 'eye' patterns of oak wood. The lighting is even, highlighting the subtle variations in tone and the fine details of the wood's surface.

Oak Earl

FP201

A close-up photograph of a wooden surface, likely Oak Tor, showing a vertical grain pattern with a prominent vertical crack or joint. The wood has a light tan color with subtle variations in tone and texture. The grain is composed of numerous fine, parallel lines running vertically. There are some small, dark spots and knots visible within the wood. The lighting is even, highlighting the natural texture of the wood.

Oak Tor

FP202

Ontario Oak

FP09

A close-up photograph of a light-colored wood surface, likely pine, showing a prominent knot. The wood grain is vertical and runs through the center of the image. The knot is an oval-shaped area where the grain curves and forms a circular pattern. The wood has a slightly weathered or distressed appearance with some darker spots and variations in tone. At the bottom of the image, there is a solid orange rectangular area containing white text.

Pine Lagertha Light

FP200

Scandinavian Walnut Dark

FP21

A close-up photograph of a wood surface, likely oak, showing a prominent knot. The wood grain is vertical and runs through the knot. The knot itself is a darker, more textured area with concentric growth rings. The overall color is a warm, medium brown.

Vivienne Oak

FP18

Brazilian Oak

FP20

The background of the image is a vertical wood grain texture in shades of light brown and tan. At the bottom, there is a solid yellow rectangular area containing white text.

Canyo Oak Cream
